The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Politics and the Post Office

Some friends gathered one noon last week to encourage Mike Bollman to enter the race for the seat in the 77th. district of the State Legislature.

Bollman, a young attorney, abstained from committing himself on the grounds that it was too early. He is a good attorney, a highly respected Republican and would make an excellent lawmaker.

One statement that held the attention of the sizeable group had to do with everyman's mail. Bollman said that one has only to look at the U.S. Postal Service to see the sorry effect of too much government.

That triggered a reminder of what a middle-management postal employee had said, confidentially, a few weeks ago.

He had said, in a private meeting with this reporter, that the Postal Service philosophy is one of the biggest rip-offs ever perpetrated on the defenseless public.

He noted that every raise in postal rates was accompanied by the appointing of another level of top-salaried executives.

He said some of these appointees come up with new and stupid rules which are not only useless but add to the work load of the lower level subordinates.

One, the suspension of many advance payment accounts for postage due mail affected firms and individuals who put up $10 or more to pay for insufficient postage mail as it arrived. The amount due was deducted from the standing balance. A simple entry was made under the patron's name and the mail went through.

Now, a postage-due notice is delivered to the patron by mail. The patron makes a trip to the Post Office when it is open and stands in line. The clerk takes his notice then searches through a pile of mail that hitherto would have been delivered almost effortlessly. The patron pays the postage due and waits while the clerk writes a receipt. The ruling, which serves no useful purpose demands more effort on the part of the clerk and inconveniences the postal patron.

Our informant also described some multi-million dollar equipment recently added to the arsenal of devices to bilk the public and further lessen the morale of ground-level postal personnel.

The equipment was researched and developed at a tremendous cost and finally unveiled as a need for cutting manpower and costs. The machine electronically sorts mail for delivery to postal districts. In a post office where eight clerks now do the sorting, they would be replaced by the machine. Upon questioning, the executive admitted that it would take "some" manpower to operate it. How many? Well, six, he said! Would these people be able to keep the electronic monster operating properly? Well, no, a crew of electronic experts would ride herd on this and other machines! How does this cut costs and manpower? Well, you don't have to pay machines fringe benefits and give them vacations, he reportedly said.

This has to be the same kind of thinking that resulted from the President's urging that we make sacrifices to slow inflation. Following the President's urgent request came the postal service's decision to raise postal rates again. Only three cents, however. Doesn't this bunch of overpaid nitwits realize that increase amounts to 30 per cent? And that 30 per cent of anything is inflationary?

Whether they did or not they would convince the public that their big over-paid hearts were running over with a warm feeling of charity for the hapless over-taxed citizen who pays his salary. They would accomplish this by deferring the 30 per cent raise until after Christmas cards are mailed, thus adding Christian charity to his concern for his fellow man. Nuts!

Bollman said the Postal Service operated by private enterprise would give better service at lower rates.

That points a way to solving many of this country's woes. It could start by getting government out of business and by reducing all government functions to a level that is necessary only to govern.

OLD TIMERS — Not-so-old officials of Lemon Grove's Annual Old Time Days celebration point to April 25 on the calendar to accent the date of next year's event. Leonard Klein, left, is OTD chairman, and Harry Hinton is Parade chairman. The parade is usually held on Saturday but the next one, said to be bigger and better than ever, is on Sunday.

Sheriff's Men Recover $1,600 Cache From Teenage Burglars

Burglaries continue to hold the spotlight in the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley area this week — but there was some good news, too.

Sheriff's deputies, aided by leads furnished through the San Diego Police Department, fanned out here and apprehended four youths and recovered more than $1,600 worth of property burglarized from two Lemon Grove homes.

The four suspects, high school students 15 and 16 years of age, face various charges from first degree burglary to receiving stolen property.

Early Morning Visit

The charges were made after sheriff's deputies made visits to homes of the suspects about 2 a.m. Friday. Evidence was found hidden in each of the four homes.

Sheriff's records show that on October 11, burglars entered the home of Donald Adams, at 8281 Jefferson st., Lemon Grove, while the owner was away. Four rifles, two shotguns, a tape deck, a CB radio, a movie projector, binoculars, a pocket calculator, shells, knives and other items were taken. These items were recovered.

From the home of Steven Richard Ybarronda, 8245 Golden ave., Lemon Grove, burglars took a cable teevee hook-up box worth $100. This item was also recovered.

The latter loss occurred after a suspect called the victim offering to install such a box and was told that he already possessed one.

Many Other Items

Deputies are seeking names of victims who lost other items picked up in the Friday round-up.

These include an additional channel selector, six partial telephones, two smoke sentinels, numerous light switches, an auto casette player, two warning lights, two door bells, a switchblade knife, a dwell meter, a vacuum gauge, co-ax cable, an electric pencil, a socket tool set, a compression tester and a timing light.

Sheriff's men are in the process of returning the recovered property to rightful owners as they become known.

Lemon Grove office executive Captain Hank Schilpp warned residents the burglars are finding a ready market for teevee selection boxes. Those having cable teevee service can install them for free rides — until caught.

Other Burglaries

In separate burglaries during the past week Richard W. Marsh, of 3781 El Canto, Casa de Oro lost stereo equipment, various pieces of jewelry and other personal items valued at $700.

Karen V. Johnson, of 4354 N. Rogers rd., Casa de Oro, was burglarized of stereo equipment, typewriter, recorder, calculator and jewelry valued at $2,475 last week. She was away from her home during the loss.

More than a dozen other burglaries were recorded with losses ranging from $100 or less.

Freeway Can Be Heaven For a Boy on a Bicycle

The California Highway Patrol spotted a youngster, about 7, pedalling his bicycle west on State 94 Monday afternoon. The youngster appeared to be Vietnamese and could speak no English.

CHP logically assumed that no youngster could travel far on a bike on 94 and escape unscathed, so he was dropped off on nearby Waite drive in Lemon Grove.

A little while later another CHP officer saw a 7-year old youngster on the same freeway and he, likewise, escorted him to Waite drive and called the sheriff's office.

Sheriff's deputy Harold Ross, patrolling nearby responded to the call. He found the youngster — guess where —back on 94.

One Word

At the Sheriff's Lemon Grove office, Deputy Ross and other officers tried to communicate with the youngster but were met with stoney-faced silence. Ross know one word of Vietnamese and the youngster repeated it but one word doesn't represent good communication. Besides, Ross didn't even know what the word meant.

Ross then called Camp Pendleton where a flock of interpreters still hold forth. They tried Vietnamese, but that didn't work. They tried other languages of various countries near Viet Nam. The youngster finally answered a question in Thai. He said he had recently come from Bangkok in Thailand and now lives with his mother on Waite dr. in Lemon Grove.

Mother and son were soon re-united where hopefully he has been taught how close State 94 at rush hour is to Thai Heaven for a boy on a bicycle.

Ortman Seeks Sup's Second District Seat

John C. Ortman, operator of six Farrell Ice Cream Parlours including the one near Grossmont Center and employing more than 300 people, said he plans to seek the seat on the County Board of Supervisors —specifically, the one now held by Second District Supervisor Dick Brown. Brown has said several times that he is not going to seek reelection. The primary will be in June.

John C. Ortman

Ortman, who lives with his wife and five children at 1820 Hidden Springs dr., El Cajon, sad he believes he can make worthwhile contributions in the area of administration, budgeting and communications.

"Like everyone in the district, I would like to see lower taxes and improved services within the current framework," he said.

"I know I can give the taxpayer constructive and productive solutions to many problems which the Board is elected to solve. I can promise that I will give all matters objective consideration and that I will not become a victim of intra-board personality conflicts."

Ortman enlisted in the Navy at 17 and retired as an officer in 1966 after completing 21 years of service.

Chamber Count Climbs to 211

During the past week, another nine members of the Lemon Grove business community signed up for membership in the local Chamber of Commerce, boosting the total membership to 211. A total of 80 new members have joined the Chamber's ranks since the recent membership drive began four weeks ago.

Spring Valley To Get New Post Office

A new Spring Valley Post Office, four miles east of and more than four times as large as the existing station on Sweetwater rd., was announced last week by Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego.

The new station will be located on a 3.4 acre parcel at the northwest corner of Sweetwater Springs blvd. and Austin dr. The Postal Service has agreed to pay $260,000 for the acreage, owned by the Rancho San Diego Land Co. of El Cajon.

Although plans for the new facility have not yet been drawn, the Postal Service anticipates 24,700 sq. ft. of floor space, compared with 6,040 sq. ft. in the existing building. Postal authorities predicted the new station would not be opened for at least two years.

The easterly location was picked to accommodate projected population growth in the Spring Valley area. Van Deerlin was told the days of the existing station are numbered anyway, since the Sweetwater rd. location eventually will give way to Freeway 125 construction.

Spring Valley Postmaster W. H. Fitzpatrick supervises a staff of 62 employees.

Tire is Bargain

Two men, described as black males, each about 23 years of age, were looking for a bargain in tires at Western Auto, 7702 Broadway, Lemon Grove.

They found one. It was the tire the pair took from a tire rack, rolled it to their car, and took of.

The occurrence was about 3:15 last Thursday and the value of the tire was placed at $50.

Tool Box Taken

The grey box filled with tools and measuring 8"x8"x18" was missing from his car when he arose one day last week, reported Richard George Vanquez of 3627 Niblick, Brookside.

He said it would cost $250 to replace the loss.

Clock and Coin Loss is $97.50

A burglar entered the premises occupied by Clarence Ralph Yokley, at 7897 Sanford dr., Lemon Grove, while he was away on October 15.

When he came home about 7 p.m. he discovered that a screen had been torn from a rear window allowing the burglar to enter and ransack the premises.

Missing was a digital clock and some coins all valued at $97.50.

Porche on Jacks; Wheels, Tires Taken

Gregory Martin Valero, of 4175 Marian ave., Vista La Mesa, put his 1966 Porsche up on jacks in his garage October 13 while preparing to have repairs made.

He left the door of his garage open overnight.

The next morning the car was there but four Porsche mag wheels worth $800; four radial tires worth $200 and a tennis racket work $60, were gone.

GETTING INVOLVED — The Lemon Grove Rotary Club makes its first Good Citizen Award to Mrs. Ann Marie Uri, a teacher at Castle Park Junior High school after her action resulted in the arrest of two offenders. She observed three suspicious-looking men in an auto watching her neighbors house in Spring Valley. The neighbors were on vacation so Mrs. Uri acted positively and promptly. She reported what the saw to the Sheriff's Lemon Grove office. Sheriff's detective Tom Nelson, left, who handled the trackdown, told Rotary members that the arrest of two of the men, one by force, cleared six burglaries in Spring Valley representing several thousand dollars. The third man is listed as a fugitive. Making the presentation to Mrs. Uri is Dr. Myron G. Fessler, club president. The club now has a program of acknowledging persons who get involved for the betterment of their community.

Flooring Ad Found to be Misleading

The Department of Consumer Affairs in California has announced that a GAF Corp. advertisement for vinyl flooring appears to be misleading.

The flooring, no-wax GAF-STAR Brite-Bond Citation, is described as "carefree" in an ad in a nationally distributed magazine.

The description is contradicted by a GAF pamphlet which describes the necessary procedures for proper maintenance of the flooring. These include the use of a GAF floor cleaner or detergent and water, a brush to loosen ground-in dirt, ammonia and a floor finish or wax.

The firm has been contacted by the Department and asked to modify the ad.

Figures show there are 105.3 million automobiles on the road today.

This Week's RECIPE

Apple Raisin Cake — Easier Than You Think

Sometimes a fancy pastry can appear to be more difficult to make than it is. Here is a recipe that will yield a not-so-ordinary delicacy with little more work than it takes to make a comparable pre-mixed cake mix.

APPLE RAISIN CAKE

½ cup margarine
1⅓ cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanille
2 cups flour
1 tsp. cinnamon
¾ tsp. soda
½ tsp. baking powder
½ cup milk
2 cups finely chopped peeled apples
1 cup raisins
½ cup chopped walnuts
Brown sugar frosting

Combine margarine and sugar; blend in eggs and vanilla. Add combined dry ingredients alternately with milk, mixing well after each addition. Stir in apples, raisins and nuts. Pour into greased and floured 13 x 9-inch baking pan. Bake at 350°, 40 to 45 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool; frost with brown sugar frosting.

BROWN SUGAR FROSTING

½ cup margarine
1 cup packed brown sugar
¼ cup milk
3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar

Combine margarine and brown sugar in saucepan; bring to boil. Cook one minute; remove from heat. Cook slightly; stir in milk. Add confectioners' sugar; beat until smooth.

Two-Game Streak on Line As Mariners Host Saints

San Diego attempts to stretch its two-game win streak into something a bit more dramatic when it hosts the Minnesota Fighting Saints in a pair of World Hockey Assn. games, Thursday and Saturday nights.

Both San Diego Sports Arena contests begin at 7:30 p.m.

It will be a headon clash of two Western Division foes and a renewal of one of the WHA's hottest series in 1974-75. San Diego won three and tied one of the six games played a year ago to finish second, three points ahead of the Saints.

The Mariners captured two home games last week, blanking Indianapolis, 3-0, behind goalie Ernie Wakely, and holding off Winnipeg, 2-1 to even their season record at 2-2.

San Diego winger Gene Peacosh scored a goal in both matches to give him five for the young campaign. Coupled with a pair of assists, he has seven points to lead the team, one ahead of winger Norm Ferguson who has two goals and four assists.

Physical Team

Minnesota brings a good-skating, physical team to the Sports Arena. The Saints have been augmented by 15-year National League veteran Dave Keon at center, pesky right winger John McKenzie and steady defenseman Gerry Odrowski from Phoenix.

That threesome goes with the return of last year's top three scorers, right wingers Mike Walton and Wayne Connelly and center Fran Huck.

Minnesota coach Harry Neale has also brought in some rough troops in the persons of winger Curt Brackenbury and the Carlson brothers, left winger Jack, center Steve and right winger Jeff.

San Diego center-winger Brian Morenz suffered ligament damage against Indianapolis and will be out for an indefinite period.

R. Lawler Returns as KSDO 'Voice of Sails'

Ralph Lawler, a former San Diego radio personality, returns to San Diego as the "voice" of the San Diego Sails, radio station KSDO has announced.

Lawler returns to San Diego after two years at WCAU Radio, where he did a daily sports show, sports commentaries and play-by-play for the Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League, Temple U. Football, and Big 5 Basketball. He also hosted a weekly college football highlights show on television.

Prior to his move to Philadelphia, Lawler was at KDEO in San Diego for four years, where he did daily sportscasts, San Diego State basketball, and San Diego Chargers football.

Burglar Gains $890

A microwave oven, a color teevee and some tapestries were taken from the Spring Valley home of John S. Pine last Thursday while he was away, he told sheriff's deputies.

The loss amounted to $890.

Griffins Meet Fullerton in Saturday Game

Spotting host Phoenix City College a 17-0 lead with two minutes left in the first half, the Grossmont Griffins rallied for a 24-17 nonconference victory over the Bears Saturday night in Arizona.

The win pushed Grossmont's season record to 3-2. But, the Griffins are 0-1 in South Coast Conference play going into Saturday's contest in Anaheim Stadium against Fullerton College. Kickoff is 7:30 p.m.

Fullerton is 1-1 in SCC action and 3-2 for the season. The Hornets bowed 36-17 to Orange Coast College Saturday. Their only other loss was to rugged El Camino College, 17-7.

Grossmont and Fullerton met in the 1974 season opener and the Griffins took a hard-fought, 27-24, decision in the closing minutes.

The loser of Saturday's rematch will most likely be eliminated from any hope of latching onto the SCC championship as Orange Coast, the state's No. 1 ranked team, doesn't figure to crumble. The pirates are 6-0 for the year.

In last week's win over Phoenix, the Griffins did not play their best football of the season. In fact, coach Dave Jordan thought the defense played "very, very poorly." The Griffins held only a 330-323 edge in total yardage, and a narrow 20-18 advantage in first downs.

Mats Fall 28-6 To Castle Park

By Steve De Nunzio

Castle Park showed why many people consider them the best football team in the county Friday, as they outmuscled the Mt. Miguel Matadors 28-6.

The loss dropped the Mats record to 3-2, while Castle Park's record was raised to a perfect 5-0 record. The game was non-league, so Mt. Miguel's league standing remains at 3-1.

Mt. Miguel's lone touchdown came in the second quarter when Bill Stuart took a handoff and ran five yards for the score. The point after kick failed.

The Trojans had another fine night from the county's leading rusher, Emsley Lopez, who ran for three touchdowns.

Friday at 8 the Matadors will face another grueling opponent — El Cajon Braves — in El Cajon.

El Cajon, who has one of league's best quarterbacks—Mark Malone. Friday Malone led the Braves to a shocking 21-20 victory over previously unbeaten Grossmont High.

Malone hit his first eight passes and completed 12 of 16 for 144 yards.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

It's finally over. Despite rain, cold weather and high winds, the Cincinnatis and the Bostons have decided the baseball crown for the year and now it's time to sit back and enjoy real athletic pleasurement.

It is that time, once again folks, to load up and settle in. The television football season is once more in command.

Now you all know the rules. Clear the decks for Saturday afternoons, Saturday nights, mid-morning till late afternoon for Sunday double-headers and, Monday evening for Howard Bigmouth and the guys.

Of course, there may be more to planning for all that free time than actually getting it scheduled.

For instance, most guys can expect a little static from the Old Ball and Chain. Fraus have a nasty habit of wanting the garage cleaned out, the leaves raked or the plumbing fixed just as you try to get settled down for an important game.

The pity of it is, most housewives have had all week to do those jobs themselves. They never get to them because they sepnd too much time in front of the TV watching the Turning World or some such thing.

I don't mean to pick on your frau, buddy, but most of 'em make a big production of slapping together something for breakfast, getting the kids off to school and you on your way to ship or station, work or office and they're done for the day.

Oh sure, they have to get their hair down, flick a dust rag around, stack dishes and plug in the dish washer, but they save the big jobs for hubby to do on Saturday.

Don't do it, guys. You'll spoil 'em rotten. Fall weekends were meant for football watching. It's in the Bill of Rights or somewhere and if it isn't, it ought to be.

Anyway, it is time to lay down a little law, guys. Just tell the frau that weekends between now and Super Sunday (Jan. 18th 1976) are being reserved for your exclusive football viewing pleasure and if she doesn't like it, take away her can opener and let her starve for a while.

And while you're at it, order in the supplies you'll need for suitable snacking comfort during the gridiron campaign.

While it is her duty, a wife should also consider it her pleasure to provide the cheese, pepperoni, dips, crackers, lunch meat, chips, mixes, juices and beer for her Lord's snacking table. It is her especially sacred duty not to forget the beer.

The dedicated TV gridfreak can conjure up at least two major college games on Saturday afternoon, plus parts of at least two others. Then, of course, there's the wind-up show where all the scores are recounted.

Then there's the early evening sports news and more scores and, with any luck, it's time for a Saturday night game. More scores in the late night news and . . . where the late night movie used to be . . . a televised taped delay of a game not shown live that afternoon.

Fraus should be conditioned to move quickly on Sunday morning. She must restock the chips, dip, sausage, sauce and a new supply of beer, mindful that taped replays of major college games have replaced televised church services for the season.

Then it's time for the pros. Double headers. And if you can manage two sets, twin double-headers. Then there's the single, wordy, over-broadcasted contest on Monday night. And that's the weekend.

Women folk have until the following Friday to clean up, fix up and get rid of the stale cigar and beer smell before next weekend's series gets underway.

The Chargers play Oakland and the Giants on the road in the next two weeks and we can look forward to looking in on such stalwart games as Los Angeles at Philadelphia, Oakland at Denver and Dallas at Washington.

I'd sure like to see those games, but my wife says I gotta build a closet, repair the fence and clean the damn garage. She's downright unAmerican.

Chargers Seek Win Numero Uno In Trip to Oakland Sunday

The fans said it during the game with the Chiefs Sunday.

Head coach Tommy Prothro said it after the game — when the Chargers had reached the level of 0-5.

He said, "We played lousy, stupid football. We busted assignments; we weren't paying attention; there were lots of things."

The Chargers who are physically able to make it, will take a trip to Oakland to do a return engagement with the Raiders at the Oakland Coliseum at 1 p.m.

After losing their last three games at home by a total of 11 points, the Chargers were further jolted last Sunday by the loss of star running back Don Woods, who underwent knee surgery.

Woods was injured as San Diego bowed to Kansas City, 12-10. That defeat followed setbacks to Los Angeles, 13-10, in overtime and Oakland, 6-0. In the three games, the Charger defense allowed two touchdowns, the same number scored by the Chargers.

Sunday's Game

Sunday's game will be the home opener for Oakland. The Raiders' 14-10 loss to the Bengals at Cincinnati last Sunday was their seventh successive road game. It followed a 42-10 loss at Kansas City to give Oakland its first two-game losing streak since 1973.

Radio and TV

Andy Musser and Dick Van Raaphorst broadcast the game for KSDO (1130) Ross Porter and Willie Davis announce the NBC telecast to San Diego on KGTV-10.

Oakland leads the series, 18-11-2. In their first game at San Diego this year, the Raiders beat the Chargers, 6-0, on field goals of 35 and 29 yards by George Blanda.

Light Brigade

Mike Fuller . . . Maurice Tyler . . . Danny Colbert. The Chargers have their own version of Alfred Lord Tennyson's "Charge of the Light Brigade."

Fuller, Tyler and Colbert, three pro football lightweights, have been special team heavyweights for San Diego all season. Against Kansas last Sunday, they kept the Chargers in the game with their bag of heroics.

Fuller, 5-9, 195-pound rookie whiz from Auburn, returned five punts for 95 yards with near breakaway sprints of 29 and 44 yards. He also returned two kickoffs for 51 yards. He also recovered two blocked field goals and returned one for 23 yards.

Second leading punt returner in the NFL with a 12.6 average for 17 returns (Oakland's Neal Colzie leads with 13.6 for 20), Fuller credits Tyler and Colbert for their lead blocking.

Foiled by Jersey

"Maurice and Danny do the work for me," said Mike, who is itching to score his first pro touchdown. "I'm going to break one real soon. I think I would have scored one today if I had my Auburn tearaway jersey."

Not only does Fuller fly downfield, he goes upfield as rapidly as a wing man on punt coverage with Tyler. That dashing duo stopped the Chiefs' Ed Podolak to 0 yards on two returns and two fair catches.

Tyler added a new wrinkle to his season-long spectacular play on special teams. The 6-0, 191-pound third-year pro, who the Chargers acquired from Denver in an off-season trade, blocked an extra point attempt by Jan Stenerud of the Chiefs.

But Tyler was bested by Colbert in the blocked kick category. Twice Colbert foiled field goal attempts by Stenerud.

Pure-bred Arabian Colt Is Golf Tourney Prize

Golf and horses — what have they in common?

In the case of the 14th annual Comedians' Golf Classic which takes place at Murietta Hot Springs Resort Hotel & C.C. November 7-9th — there's much.

The yearly comics' get-together which benefits Friends of Handicapped Children's CARE VILLAGE for severely disabled youngsters, feature a "Fun & Games" night, scheduled for November 8th, which includes a buffet dinner with the stars, a shot at a multi-thousand dollar jackpot of prizes via their "sweepstakes" and an auction, in addition to participation in a variety of games for additional prizes.

The highlight of this year's auction will be a pure-bred Arabian colt donated by Wayne Newton, and the pride of Valiant Farms, a 4 year-old mare, "Ironwood Springtime," the 1974 Pleasure-Driving Morgan champion, donated by owner Lee Baldarelli.

Those interested in attending or making a bid before November 8th may contact Friends of Handcapped Children, P.O. Box 1892, La Jolla, CA 92038 (714) 273-2273.

Players Wear 'Silks'

The other golf-horse commonality is the Golf Derby Championship, staged as a pre-tournament attraction November 7 where a field of ten players may start with one player eliminated on each hole until Win-Place and Show is determined.

The players, like horses, sport numbers on their back and wear "colored silks." The action-filled competition go off by handicap flights.

On Sunday, November 9, a field of top PGA pros, including Al Geiberger, Dave Stockton, Buddy Allin, Dave Hill and others, join the fun. The public may obtain tickets at TICKETRON outlets with a tax-deductible donation of $2.50 Murietta is one mile east of I-15. Sunday's event starts at 9 a.m.

Aztecs, 7-0 and Injured, Welcome Week's Respite

The most important part of the 1975 football season lies just ahead for San Diego State and the Aztecs will get a chance to prepare for it and let its injured heal with a bye this week.

San Diego State is 7-0, but will be tested in its last four games against Pacific (3-3-1), Arizona (5-0), San Jose State (5-1) and Long Beach State (5-2).

Arizona was rated 13th in the nation last week and should come into its November 8 game with the Aztecs in San Diego Stadium with a 7-0 mark.

San Jose State has beaten Oregon and Stanford and the only Spartan loss was in the last minute to California.

Long Beach State boasts one of the top rushers in the country in Herb Lusk and Pacific is always tough in Stockton.

Aztecs Now 7-0

The Aztecs kept their slate clean at 7-0 with a 48-3 win over New Mexico State before 45,022 fans at San Diego Stadium Saturday. Quarterback Craig Penrose led the way as he completed 21 of 29 passes for 373 yards and three touchdowns. Penrose played just over half the game before he was injured in the third period. He spent Saturday night in a hospital with a mild concussion, but will be able to play against Pacific on November 1.

Penrose paced an offense that rolled up 626 yards total offense with 483 of those coming through the air.

Signs, Banners Coming Down Here

By John Kowalczyk

One faction views it as a welcomed means of uncluttering Lemon Grove's business environment. Another describes it with tempered phrases such as "infringement on civil rights," "suppressing the small businessman" or "just damned ridiculous." Whichever the more popular concensus, the revised County Sign Ordinance has been a topic of controversy among merchants in the Lemon Grove area this year.

The germ of the grumblings came after August 7, 1974, when the County Board of Supervisors signed into law amendements to the county zoning ordinance which beefed up restrictions and set up a five-year enforcement phase-in for the new code.

Supervisors Walsh, Bear and Taylor gave "aye" votes; Brown and Conde were absent that day.

A general feeling that Lemon Grove is a target area for the Zoning Enforcement team is more or less accurate, depending on who you talk to. Sign ordinance officers who visited a February meeting of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce board of directors, cited the "proliferation of signs" in this area along with warnings that letters to violators would be sent by mid-summer.

DOWN THEY COME — Dave Lynch, mechanic trainee at John Factor VW, removes pennants on the dealer's lot. Factor was ordered to remove the now illegal attention-getting devices by Wednesday. "It's going to look like we're closed," proprietor John Factor complained.

Bob Fritch, county zoning administrator, views Broadway's cluster of business and billboard signs as one of the county's most excessive, but confesses that his feelings are based on his own "esthetic sense" rather than on any scientific study. An initial survey by the enforcement team showed that only 17% of the businesses on Broadway had some sort of sign violation.

Fritch said that no one has ever complained to the Zoning Administration about the overabundance of signs, a remark which sets one to wonder where the incentive for a new ordinance originated. He suggested the Board of Supervisors as a source for a reply.

District 2 Supervisor Dick Brown, testifies that sentiments against the esthetic beauty of Lemon Grove have emerged in conversations at numerous community meetings and planning commission hearings.

Brown believes that a reduction in all sign sizes will enhance the beauty of the business community without damaging a business' exposure. "A merchant puts up a large sign only because his neighbor has a large sign," he said.

New Ordinance Redefines

The 4000-word rewrite redefines what "sign" and "sign area" mean and thusly sets the stage for the new wave of enforcement in unincorporated areas. (Incorporated cities are obliged to create their own rules.)

Fritch contends that the enforcement team is devoting equal enforcement measures to all affected areas and that a roughly proportional amount of violations have been ferreted out of each area.

19 Lemon Grove area businesses advanced to the stages of a second registered letter warning of the need to comply, the enforcement office reported last week. Of those ,two contended that their signs had already been brought into compliance. They were told to ignore the letter. Two others said that they received just one warning letter.

Everyone indicated intentions to comply with the new rules, some more reluctantly than others.

Since an organized Chamber of Commerce effort to attack the new rules fizzled, there is little that merchants can do but alter the signs and remove pennants. Failure to do so can be costly.

Although actual sentencing of violators to the zoning ordinance is uncommon, the laws are backed up by stiff fines and jail sentences. A judge can levy up to $500 and 6 months jail for each day of a zoning ordinance violation.

Rarely has even a minor sentence been handed out to county violators, says Fritch who can recall only one instance when $40 was levied and collected and another when $250 was fined but suspended within a week, when the infraction was corrected.

New Signs, New Fees

The new ordinance also imposes a permit and fee which encourages conservative planning on the part of new merchants who want to mount a new sign or established businessmen who want to replace an old one. New sign permits run $5 plus 15 cents per sq. ft. That pays for a two-year initial period. Renewals are issued for an additional two years at $10 plus 10 cents per sq. ft.

NON-SYMMETRICAL, BUT LEGAL — Before and after photos demonstrate how some local merchants solved their sign ordinance violations — paint over enough of the sign to make it legal. Others removed projecting signs, allowing more legal wall space. One other merchant converted his projecting sign into a wall sign. Wall signs and pennants were first in the ordinance phase-in. Within five years, free standing and other signs will have to comply. Billboards fall under the jurisdiction of a separate revised ordinance.

Incentive to honor the renewal commitments is written into the law. Failure to do so by the expiration date automatically doubles the fee.

Businesses established prior to the legislation are exempt from the permit fees, insofar as their old signs conform to the new code. When the businessman decides that it is time for a new sign, he begins paying for the permits.

Banners, pennants and other similar attention grabbers were formerly exempt from the code. Today, they are legal only for two months to draw attention to a grand opening. A flat rate of $20 for a permit makes them a legal promotion.

Four auto dealers along Broadway have been notified that their fluttering plastic strips will have to go. Only American or state flags may be flown over the premises of an established business, from now on.

Most of the Lemon Grove violations have been for wall signs which exceeded the legal limits outlined in the new code. The first stage of the five-year phase-in concerns wall signs and pennants.

Factors that go into computing the maximum allowable wall sign size are a storefront's width, the width of the street it faces, even the speed limit. These make for a complicated set of criteria which can be understood only after a careful study of the ordinance.

The copy area for wall signs is determined by multiplying the linear feet of the building's facing by a number which varies according to the combination of sign types used by a merchant.

Take, for example, a wall sign on a 25-foot wide building facing Broadway. If no projecting or free-standing sign accompanies it, the sign can be 3 3/4 times the width or 93 3/4 sq. ft. A freestanding sign in addition to the wall sign reduces that factor to 1½, permitting a maximum of 37.5 sq. ft. If a roof or projecting sign compliments the wall sign, the factor is reduced to 1, permitting a maximum of 25 sq. ft.

The factors are smaller on streets less than 60 feet wide. (Broadway is wider than 60 feet.)

The speed limit dictates another set of maximums which merchants must consider. The speed rule generally states that the larger the street and the faster the speed limit, the larger the sign size allowd.

Signs on Broadway, with a speed limit classed in the 0 to 35 m.p.h. category, can be no more than 175 sq. ft. regardless of the other computations. For comparison, streets as wide as Broadway with 40 and above m.p.h. speed limits permit up to 300 sq. ft. signs per shop face.

Most merchants in the Lemon Grove area whose signs failed to meet the rigid standards of the new ordinance displayed projecting or roof signs in addition to their wall signs. The common solution has been to either remove the projecting signs or paint over enough of the wall sign to bring it into compliance.

A few merchants are storing their projecting signs on their rooftops, with hopes of replacing them if the latest bid for Lemon Grove incorporation is successful.

Dale Willey Gets VFW Appointment

Kansas City (Special) — Dale Willey, 1708 Colfax dr., Lemon Grove, V.F.W. Post 6874, has been appointed a member of the V.F.W.'s National Voice of Democracy Committee for 1975-76, by Commander-in-Chief Thomas C. Walker, of New London, Conn.

Walker, head of the 1.8 million member organization of overseas veterans said "Willey has been active in the V.F.W. for many years and brings a great deal of expertise in working with the V.F.W.'s broadcast scriptwriting contest.

"This is a historic period, not only for the V.F.W., but for the entire United States. We will direct our activities to the celebration of the 200th birthday of our country as well as the current issues facing our nation. I look forward to working with Mr. Willey this year," Commander Walker said.

CA Warns Against TV, Appliance Repair Ripoff

The Department of Consumer Affairs is advising California residents to shop wisely for television and appliance repairs.

"We have received a number of complaints alleging overpricing of repairs," said Jack Hayes, chief of the Bureau of Repair Services, "but there is little the department can do to prevent pricing abuses. It is the repsonsibility of the consumer to be sure he understands what the repair shop charges for a service call and what he receives for that money."

Hayes said that the Bureau of Repair Services is investigating several repair firms, including some statewide operators, which engage in deceptive price advertising.

$39 an Hour

Typically, the repair shop will quote a price for a "service call," but this price will only cover the cost of transportation of the repairman to the consumer's door. "At this point," explains Hayes, "the repairman begins billing the consumer for his time. Some repair shops are charging as much as $39 an hour for labor. Others are using elaborate, flim-flam billing schemes to confuse the customer."

Hayes cautioned that consumers should not expect an unrealistically low price for service. Costs of the business, he said, have increased in recent years, "but it is the few shops that are way out of line and attempt to deceive the consumer that cause concern.

Simple Safeguards

Hayes suggested the following when a television serviceman is needed:

- Ask how much a service call to your home costs.
- Ask what is included in that cost — is it just a charge to transport the repairman to your door or does it include labor on the defective set or appliance?

appliance?

- If the TV has to be taken to the shop, be sure to get a claim receipt.

Also, Hayes reminds consumers that a written estimate for parts and labor must be provided by the repair shop if requested. The dealer may not charge more than the estimate without previous consent of the customer.

"Consumers should know that making the estimate need not be free," says Hayes, "The serviceman is allowed to charge a reasonable fee for making the estimate."

Complaints against an appliance or television repair dealer must be filed with the Bureau of Repair Services, 909 S st., Sacramento, 95814.

County Job Center In New Location

If you're thinking about applying for a job with the County don't visit the County Administration Center on Pacific Highway. That's where the Personnel Office used to be located.

Effective this week, the Personnel Office will be operating from new quarters located at 1375 Pacific Highway in San Diego. The move is part of a master plan to remodel the County Administration Center. All phone numbers for the Personnel Office remain the same.

Group Fights Cat Killing

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is the target of criticism by Friends of Cats, Inc. (FoC) a private, non-profit, humane organization which opposes the SPCA's practice of destroying unwanted cats in decompression chambers.

Cats are not considered personal property in a court of law and may be trapped and destroyed by individuals or agencies, according to a spokesman for the 30-year S.D. humane group.

To cope with the problem of overcrowding, animal shelters practice mass extermination, FoC claims.

The legality of such practices as cat-trapping and the use of decompression chambers for extermination is questioned by FoC.

To emphasize its opposition to this mode of euthenasia, FoC has adopted a plan for a program of public education emphasizing the importance of spaying and neutering cats against decompression chambers now in use at SPCA facilities, according to FoC member Robbie Booth.

Don't Judge an Egg by Its Color

You can't judge the health merits of an egg by the color of its shell, says Ralph Ernst, University of California Cooperative Extension poultry specialist.

In response to increasing public interest in the claimed health merits of blue-shelled eggs from Arucana chickens —a breed originating in South America — researchers at UC Davis compared the cholesterol content of these with that of ordinary eggs.

Some health food outlets have been charging premium prices for the eggs and promoting them as having no cholesterol and up to 20 per cent more protein and iron than brown or white shelled chicken eggs.

The lower cholesterol claims are not substantiated by their research. In fact, researchers discovered that the Arucana eggs were slightly higher than conventional eggs in cholesterol. The researchers also concluded that there were no differences in protein levels between the two types.

Nutritionist Andrew Clifford and avian scientist Daniel Peterson measured the cholesterol content in three ways — per gram of whole yolk, per gram of dry matter in the yolk and per whole egg All instances showed higher levels in the blue-shelled eggs.

Dear Editor:

Regarding your column of September 18th, "Smoking to be Costly," you have hit the nail on the head. Unfortunately, the prevailing Board majority (the usual 3-2 on this issue) couldn't see the problem. I do hope, however, that enough public outcry is forthcoming to support a move to delete this "public enforcement" feature.

Jamul School Space Shortage Issue Faces Voters Nov. 4

Two ballot measures come before the voters in the Jamul-Las Flores school district on November 4. The campaign to finance school buildings through bonds and state loans is being run by a citizens' group calling itself "Taxpayers for Schools."

"The need is obvious," reports Janet Mulder, chairman of Taxpayers. "The school was built for 510 students and we have over 600 now with more on the way."

The San Diego County Planning Department shows the Jamul area grew 33.7 per cent from April 1, 1970 to January 1, 1975, she said. However, the school enrollment increased 47.3 per cent during this same period, a more rapid rate than that of overall population in the Jamul area.

"The school has been forced to put kindergarten through fifth grade on double sessions to temporarily alleviate the overcrowding," said Bernard Howerton, school superintendent. "Double sessions are never a good solution, but they are the only means available to our students until adequate school facilities are constructed."

Utilization of bonds and state loan funds for construction of school facilities is the least expensive way to finance necessary additional classrooms, she maintains. "There will be no increase in the local elementary school tax rate if these measures are passed at this time because the district is now at the maximum rate set by the state."

New School

"Upon passage of propositions Y and Z (the school bond and state loan issues), immediate application to the State Loan Program would be made in order to begin building a middle school on a site adjacent to the current school buildings," Howerton said.

"It is important for the public to remember that both issues must pass," said Mrs. Mulder who hopes for a large voter turnout November 4.

Members of Taxpayers for Schools are Jamul residents Donna Hendrix, Lynda Green, Joetta Lantz, Geri Manos, Roy Huffine, Norma Henrikson, Lois Fritz and Margaret Conners; also, La Nay Magoffin, Carol Camp and Charlotte Holcumb of Dulzura. Ex officio members include school board members Nancy Hiles, Dianne Jacob, Charles Jessup, Don Freeman and Leon Finnerty, and administrative representatives Bernard Howerton and Dr. Dan Cunniff, principal.

Coffees

Informal coffees are being scheduled throughout the district in private homes. The purpose of the coffees is to inform the electorate and answer any questions regarding the bond and loan propositions.

Mrs. Geri Manos is in charge of setting up the coffees. Individuals inetrested in attending one of these should contact her at 461-2849 for location and time of the coffee in their neighborhood. All interested people are encouraged to attend.

BoS Create New Dept. For Animal Control

The County Board of Supervisors have created a Department of Animal Control to relieve the County Veterinarian of the duties of animal regulation.

The proposed department should be in operation by December 5, a county spokesman said.

James J. Gilshian, former director of building inspection in the County Department of Land Use and Environmental Regulation, was appointed to head the new department.

Amendments to animal control ordinances are being prepared by supervisors. The new department will allow the County Veterinarian to concentrate more on animal health functions.

Election Bag Grows for Finch

In all, the Finch Senate effort has received $124,994.29. The first quarter from January 1 to March 1, accounted for $32,503.50. The second report for the period of March 1 to June 30 recorded the receipt of contributions of $52,008.72.

Sails Open Season Friday

The untold thousands who mourn the passing of the Conquistadors earlier this year may be rejoicing Friday night at 7:15.

That's when the San Diego Sails, the American Basketball Assn. franchise replacement fields a team likely to be an improvement over its predecessor.

The management has believability; the coach, Bill Mussleman, believes in players working for their pay, and a couple of zany show biz bits will supply the humor. The latter by Crazy George and a squat man listed as "The World's Fastest Eater."

The season opens against a tough opponent — the Denver Nuggets, the ABA's western division's defending champions.

Starters for Friday's game will be chosen from Kevin Joyce, Bo Lamar, Pat McFarland or Bobby Warren, guards; forwards Mark Olberding, Roscoe Poindexter, Clint Chapman, Rick Schmidt and Joby Wright; and centers, Caldwell Jones and Lee Davis.

Parking is free.

Local Services Listed By United Way-CHAD

Lemon Grove and Spring Valley residents received an estimated 4,264 individual services, 1,468 days of care, and 5,617 memberships during 1974 from agencies of United Way who are supported by contributions to the annual United Way/CHAD Combined Campaign.

The 11 national health agencies of CHAD allocated $4.2 million in 1974 for research projects in San Diego County and committed $742,148 to direct patient services, including testing and screening programs which reached 103,520 persons in San Diego County.

"These services rendered to residents of Lemon Grove and Spring Valley represent dollars contributed to the United Way/CHAD campaign," said Hardy Kuykendall of La Mesa who is East County area chairman for the 1975 United Way/CHAD campaign. "Without the area's continuing support of the United Way/CHAD drive, "these vital health and human care services might not be available."

10.4 Excess Acres Sold By GUHSD

Grossmont Union High School District has been relieved of 10.4 acres of surplus property at Monte Vista High School.

The Governing Board entertained bids on the property at its September 8 meeting. Only one oral bid was made, that of $75,000, the specified minimum, placed by H. Edward Birdwell.

At the following meeting, board members asked that Grossmont administrators review a series of methods to hold the property pending a further study of its possible use. That was discouraged on the grounds that it might lead to legal action based on altering the escrow arrangement.

At its October 6 meeting, the sale was closed. Gene Patterson & Associates handled the sale. The property is at the northeastern end of Monte Vista near the Church of Jesus Christ Latter Day Saints.

Bank's Prizes Total $100,000

Security Bank has $100,000 in prizes to give away in its Lifestyle Sweepstakes.

A Cessna 150 Commuter airplane is the grand sweepstakes award, with a Cadillac Seville, a Viking "Meadowood" mobile home, a deluxe Reinell 2600 sailing cruiser with trailer and a $7,500 home improvement award completing the list of major prizes in the drawing. An Iverson "Grand Sport" 10-speed bicycle will be given away at each of Security Pacific Bank's nearly 500 offices throughout California.

40 are in San Diego County with nearby branches in Grossmont and College Grove Shopping Centers and in El Cajon City.

"All of these prizes are representative of California's upbeat, dynamic way of life, and in this way, carry out a dream-come-true lifestyle theme," said Robert A. Huss, senior vice president of the bank's Marketing Department. "The major prizes are also symbolic of the bank's desire to make lifestyle loans."

All California residents over 18 are welcome to enter the Lifestyle Sweepstakes as often as they wish without obligation. Bicycles will be awarded individually at each bank office. All entries for the major prizes will be combined. The D. L. Blair Corp., an independent judging firm, will select the prize winners, who will be notified by mail. The contest ends November 7.

PUC Sets Stage for 'Lifeline' Relief to Gas, Electric Users

The California Public Utilities Commission granted San Diego Gas & Electric $27.2 million in interim rate relief and took first steps toward "lifeline" rate relief to gas and electric customers in the San Diego area last Thursday. SDG&E had requested $35 million in interim rate relief, that in addition to a $119.4 million increase request filed April 16.

The PUC observed that high interest rates were impairing the utility's ability to secure equity capital and that the interim order was meant to halt this erosion.

Service Cuts?

SDG&E President Walter A. Zitlau expressed shock at the decision and called it "totally inadequate" for maintaining the present level of service.

"The decision forces us to re-evaluate our whole operation to determine what services must be curtained. We regret that under these circumstances there is no alternative to a reduction in service," Zitlau said.

The PUC announced that its next SDG&E rate decision would adopt a "lifeline" concept which would exclude small domestic users from all rate increases until such time as the average rates for all customers "substantially exceed the rate for lifeline quantities to domestic users."

Aimed at Conservation

The "lifeline" philosophy adopted by the PUC is an attempt to encourage conservation, primarily by large users, and at the same time recognize that a minimum quantity of energy is required by all domestic users and should be available at reasonable cost.

The philosophy reverses the historical pattern of declining rate block structures, which encourage high usage by charging less per unit for larger quantities of energy consumed.

Thursday's order reduces electric rates for domestic users of 100, 200 and 300 kilowatt hours of electricity a month, except in D-2 zones (Escondido, San Clemente, Poway and Rancho Bernardo which will experience a 0.1 per cent increase.

"Average" domestic electricity customers using 500 kilowatts monthly will experience a 2.7 per cent increase in the San Diego metropolitan area which includes Lemon Grove and Spring Valley.

Dates for public hearings on SDG&E's full request for an added $92 million have not been announced. Sixteen days of hearings were held on the interim increase in San Diego between June 25 and July 25.

Bank is First to Try Readable Loan Form

By John Kowalczyk

Could it be true? Are the the days of cumbersome legal terminology and fine print really numbered?

Evidence of a long overdue movement to improve the readability of legal and professional business forms materialized last week at Crocker National Bank which launched a statewide advertising campaign announcing a revision in its standard loan agreement form and promised to introduce simplified versions of other forms in ensuing weeks.

A letter sent to bank employees summed up the new approach. "We're chopping up all those long-winded sentences," it reads. "Putting plain and simple words in place of the stuffy old legalese. Fattening up the fine print so everything's easy to read. And in some cases condensing many pages into a few, or several forms into just one."

For years, reading experts like Dr. Rudolph Flesch, author of best-sellers "The Art of Plain Talk" and "Why Johnny Can't Read," have been citing the incredibly poor readability ratings of bank and insurance forms. Dr. Flesch is a consultant with the New York communications and design firm Siegel and Gale, which helped Crocker rewrite its forms.

Read Like 'Digest'

The new forms are rated about 60 on Flesch's "Readability Test," the same level at which "Reader's Digest" is ranked. Dr. Flesch says most legal forms are so complicated they rate lower than zero— what he calls the "sheer verbal jungle level" common to documents such as income tax regulations and insurance policy statements.

A comparison of the new with the old shows what hacking down that jungle brush can do.

Common to most legal contracts is a summary of all that the signee agrees to, usually spelled out in the smallest print and located just above the signature. On the old Crocker loan form, this part of the "jungle" contained no less than 274 words, beginning with: "For value received, the undersigned jointly and severally, endorse, guarantee and promise to pay the holder hereof the within note and all extensions and renewals thereof . . ."

The same section on the new form reads in total: "I've read this agreement and received a copy before signing. I agree to its terms and that my obilgations under the agreement are joint and several."

The print is all 10-point type, larger than the text in most magazines and newspapers. (You're reading 8-point type now.)

'You' and 'We'

"The undersigned" and "customer" have become "you" and "the holder hereof" and "the creditor' have been simplified to the more familiar "we" and "us." Technical terms included for legal reasons are explained in easy-to-understand language.

The new approach is refreshing, and considering Crocker's expansive plans to promote it, is bound to spur other firms to do some ambitious weeding in their jungles.
